Hyper-Sane Quotes

Philosophy

V for Vendetta:

V: What was done to me created me. It's a basic principle of the Universe that every action will create an equal and opposing reaction.

William Shakespeare:

"He jests at scars that never felt a wound."

James Carroll:

"We cloak ourselves in cold indifference to the unnecessary suffering of others--even when we cause it."

Bertolt Brecht:

"The first time it was reported that our friends were being butchered there was a cry of horror. Then a hundred were butchered. But when a thousand were butchered and there was no end to the butchery, a blanket of silence spread. When evil doing comes like falling rain, nobody calls out 'stop!'

George Bernard Shaw:

"Patriotism is a pernicious, psychopathic form of idiocy."

Michael Parenti:

"If the test of patriotism comes only by reflexively falling into lockstep behind the leader whenever the flag is waved, then what we have is a formula for dictatorship, not democracy... But the American way is to criticize and debate openly, not to accept unthinkingly the doings of government officials of this or any other country."

Aldous Huxley:

"One of the great attractions of patriotism—it fulfills our worst wishes. In the person of our nation we are able, vicariously, to bully and cheat. Bully and cheat, what's more, with a feeling that we are profoundly virtuous."

Ralph Chaplin:

"Mourn not the dead that in the cool earth lie, but rather mourn the apathetic, throng the coward and the meek who see the world's great anguish and its wrong, and dare not speak."

George Orwell:

"The Catholic and the Communist are alike in assuming that an opponent cannot be both honest and intelligent."
